

THE BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE

VOL. XXXII, NO. 38.

THE BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1941.

$2.00 PER ANNUM.

"Serve the Church that the Church May Serve You."

CENTRAL UNITED CHURCH BLAIRMORE

Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., Minister

Service Sunday, next—
7.30 p.m., Public Worship.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, BLAIRMORE

Rev. J. K. Hague, A.Th., Incumbent

Sunday, September 21, 7.30 p.m., Harvest-Thanking service.

The church will be decorated Saturday afternoon and all who are able are asked to be on hand to help.

SALVATION ARMY, COLEMAN

Captains Mr. and Mrs. F. Watson

Sunday services:
11.00 a.m., Holiness Meeting.
7.30 p.m., Salvation Meeting.
Tuesday: 7.30 p.m., Red Shield Auxiliary and Home League.

Thursday: 8 p.m., Praise Meeting. Weddings, funerals and dedications on application to the local officers.

SOME HINTS ON ANTERIOR POLIOMYELITIS OR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Cause—An infection or virus which is thought to gain access to the system through the mucous membrane of the nose. It is both contagious and infectious.

Symptoms—Headache, malaise, pain generally in the back, sometimes vomiting. The symptoms are followed in from a few to ten or twelve hours by some paralysis in a limb. The location of the paralysis depends on the location of the infective foci in the spinal area, and the amount of paralysis generally corresponds to the severity of the infection.

Measures to be taken to avoid—Keep children fit, avoid crowds, avoid bathing in lakes. A nasal spray might be used about once a week with an atomizer consisting of a one per cent solution of zinc sulphate.

Once a child is a victim, early treatment is very important.

Coleman's teaching staff have been allowed 28 cents a day cost of living bonus, effective from September 1st.

"Soon the infantry will return home after final victories have been won."—Hun broadcast "for their home consumption," September 1, 1940. And now, September 2, 1941, the statement is "A German is fully aware every hour of the day that this great war demands even his life." Perhaps he notices here and there the incongruity between his own desires and general necessity.

FORMER MUSICAL CONTESTANT DOING WELL WITH R.C.A.F.

LAC "Dick" Vernon, of the Royal Canadian Air Force and a former contestant at many of Blairmore's musical festivals, is doing fine work these days, and now taking his final examinations as a fighter pilot at the Pacific coast. Dick was a member of the well known Fernie City Band and has taken part in many solo, duet and quartet competitions for many years past. Before joining the Air Force, he was a member of the military band at Currie Barracks, Calgary, where twenty out of the twenty-six members of the band are former Fernie City band boys. Mr. Floyd Vernon, who took the band to Calgary for enlistment, was unable to pass the medical examinations, after trying some seven times, on account of injuries sustained in the first great war.

WOULD FORM LEGION OF FREE FRENCHMEN IN BLAIRMORE

An appeal is being made to all French men and women of Blairmore and district to form a group to support our Free French leader, General Charles de Gaulle, who with 700,000 Free French soldiers are fighting as allies of the British Empire against the Nazi hordes. French people, young and old, and everyone interested, organize. We must help to regain our freedom. We must stand to maintain it.

We have the great privilege of being here in Canada, and must help to defend our adopted country as well as our native land. Rally now! France must be saved from tyranny and slavery, which she will have under the Nazi rule.

Mr. B. Cayron, president, and Mr. A. Breimer, secretary-treasurer, of the Committee Nationale of the Free Frenchmen of Calgary, will be here on Wednesday next, September 24th, for the purpose of organizing.

It's a poor brand of religion that makes a man pray for his neighbors one day in the week and try to cheat them the other six days.

Mr. C. M. Laxalester, town secretary-treasurer, has been kind laid up with tonsillitis. Should be careful, for tonsillitis hits young people hardest!

The marriage of Miss Annie Verence, of Bellevue, to Mr. Alfred Harland Brown, of Blairmore, took place at the registrar's office in Coleman on September 6th, with Rev. J. E. Kirk officiating.

Have you been on a trip? Have you friends from out of town visiting you? Do you know of any happening, or of any unusual event that others would enjoy reading about? The Enterprise wants the news of the town and district, and would appreciate your interest and assistance. Just phone 11, or drop a note in at the office. If printed, you can be assured it will be readable.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Mr. Richards has returned from Calgary, where he had been a patient in the Holy Cross hospital.

Gunner Bob Orr left for Camp Petawawa after spending a week with his mother here.

Eleanor D'Amico has entered the Calgary normal school.

A miscellaneous shower was held Tuesday evening of last week in the Catholic hall, complimentary to Miss Christina Bianchini, whose wedding was to take place on the 13th. A very enjoyable programme was presented by her many friends, and she was recipient of many useful gifts.

Lenin Grychnuck resumed his duties with the Meadow Street District, after recovering from injuries sustained through falling off a horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gregory and daughter are Hillcrest visitors.

Bob Silcock, of the R.C.A.F., is home from Calgary on leave, and renewing friends.

A baby boy has arrived to Mr. and Mrs. D. Welsh.

G. Thornton is visiting here.

The marriage of Miss Christina, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bianchini, of Hillcrest, and Mr. Frank Ratko, son of Mrs. J. Duray and the late Mr. Duray, of Bellevue, was solemnized at St. Theresa's church in Hillcrest on Saturday last, Rev. Father Anderson officiating. The bride was gowned in a floor-length dress of white sheer with a matching bolero and hip-length veil, and carried a bouquet of roses. She wore a gold locket, gift of the groom. Mrs. Armand Bianchini, as matron of honor, wore a floor-length sheer gown with chapel veil to match, and carried a bouquet of gladioli. Pearl Manor, first bridesmaid, was dressed in a floor-length pink sheer gown and matching chapel veil, and carried a bouquet of gladioli. The flower girl, Marion Pollock, was dressed in floor-length white tulle with matching hat, while the page boy, Bobby Pollock, wore a white suit. They carried a basket of flowers. The groom was supported by Mr. Frank Godik, of Bellevue. Simon and Johnny Funder acted as ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's brother, Mrs. Armand Bianchini, where about fifty guests were present. The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake. Following a short honeymoon, to be spent at Trail and other B.C. points, the happy couple will reside in Hillcrest until the groom is called for the army.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

W. J. Bryan's manifesto as Democratic candidate for U.S. president called for arbitration treaties, earlier convening of congress after election, election of U.S. senators by direct vote, compulsory arbitration of labor disputes but not compulsory acceptance of the award; an eight-hour day; publicity as to campaign contributions, none from corporations; the destruction and eradication of all trusts and monopolies, no interlocking directorates, national and state ownership of railways.

A movement is on foot to equip every rural school in Manitoba with telephones, with a special rate of $20 a year and no charge for service connection. The telephone is the quickest messenger in cases of sickness or accident to the pupils, or for the safety of school property in case of fire.

When this province is able to supply cancer sufferers with free hospitalization and surgery, in addition to the existing clinic services, Alberta will become one of the leading world centres for the treatment of cancer. This was told by Dr. George H. Malcolmson to doctors in annual convention in Edmonton recently, who claimed that the majority who applied to the clinics were, on the average, eight months too late.

PANGMAN—EVANS

A very pretty wedding took place in the United church manse, Blairmore, on Thursday, August 28, when (Dolly) Doris Edna, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans, of Blairmore, was united to Gordon C., only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pangman, of McConnel, Manitoba, Rev. E. B. Arrol, B.A., officiating. Supporting the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Idris Evans respectively. The happy couple will leave on an extended trip to Eastern Canada on Sunday, and will visit the groom's home for a while. We join with their many friends here in wishing them many years of happiness.

POLIO BAN LIFTS

Announcement is made as we go to press that the ban on assemblies brought into effect a few weeks ago by the provincial health department in connection with the dread spread of poliomyelitis in the province, will be lifted at midnight Sunday.

All schools in the province will re-open for the fall term on Monday morning, September 22nd.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. F. A. Tustian has returned from a week's visit with friends in Lethbridge.

Threshing has been held up again, owing to rainy weather. In spite of a touch of frost, we are still using green beans and corn from our gardens. Hardy vegetables are still making rapid growth.

Mrs. Robert Littleton was a recent visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ritten at Lundbreck.

Miss Mae Poulson has gone to Calgary to attend normal school for the ensuing term.

Mrs. Alvin Murphy has returned from Athabasca, where she spent several weeks with her parents.

Subscribe for The Enterprise today. It's the only newspaper in the world that gives a whoop about Blairmore.

This district had no forest fires this year, but touch wood!

Coleman's aluminum collection campaign has been extended to September 28-27.

Since taking over the Crossfield Chronicle, Ivan Hamby has greatly improved the paper's appearance.

A woman passed away in Cape Breton last week. Doctors claimed that she would have lived longer if she hadn't talked Gaele.

The repairs to the furnace at the United church are completed and a warm welcome will await you on Sunday evening. Come and bring your friends.

Harry Snider, Edmonton's amateur "prophet," who predicted the war would end by August 31 with Germany beaten, and that Hitler would be assassinated within a week, announces that he had misinterpreted his visions, and that the real turning point of the war will arrive not later than September 24th. He says Hitler and three other dictators will die of violence according to schedule within a week after September 24th. Hitler is said to be already packin' up.

Nicholas Tompkins, aged 73, passed away at Kenora, Ontario, on Saturday, September 13th. The late Mr. Tompkins was born at North East, Margaree, Nova Scotia, and came out west about thirty-five years ago. He is survived by two brothers out of a family of seven, Mr. C. J. Tompkins, of Blairmore, and Rev. Dr. J. J. Tompkins, of Reserve Mines, N.S.; also step-brothers Michael and Joseph, at the old home in Margaree, and a step-sister, Mrs. Ed. Pettie, of Dominion No. 1, N.S. Funeral services were held at Kenora on Tuesday, the 16th.

LUNDBRECK DONATION TO LORD MAYOR'S FUND IS ACKNOWLEDGED

On September 7th, 1940, the German Air Force commenced their intensive raids on Great Britain, and rained death and destruction upon London followed by almost daily attacks upon the lives and homes of the citizens.

In response to urgent requests, and with the approval of the Government, the Lord Mayor of London, by a letter in The Times of September 11th, opened a London air raid distress fund at the Mansion House for the prompt assistance of all sufferers from the ruthless bombing from the air. The response was immediate, and generous gifts flowed in from all over the country, while cables from all parts of the Empire brought, not only pledges of substantial financial help, but inspiring messages of sympathy and admiration for the wonderful spirit of pluck and endurance displayed by all classes of the community.

After careful consideration, it was decided that the only satisfactory and efficient way of distributing relief would be through the mayor of the metropolitan boroughs, afterwards extended to include the mayors and council chairmen of Greater London. Grants were made to all civic heads to enable them to act promptly and give instant relief to all sufferers from air raids. The Government, through the assistance board, made certain allowances after investigation of the claims, but it was the intention and desire of those administering the Lord Mayor's Fund to anticipate and supplement any provision from Government sources, and to help those cases which, though pressing and tragic, did not come within the scope of the Government scheme.

Food, clothing, cash for small immediate necessities were available, and grants were made towards the cost of funerals and removal of furniture to new homes. The attacks became more widespread. Acute distress was caused in other parts of the country, though the principal sufferers were in London. On October 28th, when the Fund amounted to £1,320,000, the mayors and council chairmen of Greater London met at the Mansion House and generously decided to share this large sum with the rest of the United Kingdom, and the fund became The Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund. The policy and administration of the fund are now carried out by a council made up of representatives elected by the civic heads in each civil defence region throughout the United Kingdom, with the Lord Mayor of London as chairman. A local committee set up in each region allocates grants to such civic authorities as may need assistance for their respective areas.

The fund now amounts to more than £2,000,000, and grants have been made of approximately £200,000, but it is absolutely necessary that this fund should have at its disposal ample resources to meet all possible claims which may be made upon it. The Lord Mayor and Council would like to feel that however great and widespread the need may be, regular and generous gifts will ensure prompt and sufficient help for every demand. The support and gifts of all men and women of goodwill are urgently needed. Many have been received from Canada and other countries of the great Commonwealth. These have been promptly acknowledged. Among them was the donation made in June by the Lundbreck-Cowley Old Timers Association, forwarded through Hon. R. B. Bennett. His acknowledgment follows:

Ministry of Aircraft Production, Millbank, S. W. 1, June 28, 1941.

W. T. Eddy, President, Lundbreck, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Eddy: I duly received your letter and immediately communicated with the Lord Mayor. He informs me that he has written you, expressing his appreciation of the action of your organization.

Your letter recalled old associations and happy memories of early days in Alberta.

I trust you and your fellow members are enjoying good health, and extend to you my best wishes and sincere congratulations upon the fine action you have taken at making so generous a contribution to the Lord Mayor's Fund.

Ever yours sincerely,

R. B. Bennett.

The following letter was received about August 7th:

The Mansion House, London, E. C. 4.

W. T. Eddy, Esquire, President Lundbreck-Cowley Old Timers Association, Lundbreck, Alberta, Canada.

Dear Sir: I have received through the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett a cheque for $50, being a contribution from your association in aid of my National Air Raid Distress Fund, in respect of which I have pleasure in enclosing official receipt No. 62859.

May I say how very much I appreciate your committee's gracious gesture in making this provision for my Fund, which could only be possible because of your united deep sympathy and concern for those of our people who have suffered so grievously as a result of enemy air attacks upon our country.

Will you please accept yourself, and convey to your executive committee, my deep gratitude for this kind consideration and token of your friendship at a time when it means so much to us to know that we are being encouraged and strengthened by those of goodwill.

Most as I appreciate this donation, those who will derive relief and comfort from it will be even more grateful, and on their behalf I wish to thank you most warmly.

Yours truly,
George S. Wilkinson,
Lord Mayor.

CANADIAN WORKER OBJECTIVE

The following is an extract from the Labor Day message issued by A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor:

"The workers of Canada, in ever-increasing numbers, are becoming organized. They will continue to organize in spite of opposition from employers or the failure of the government to respect and enforce its own policy. They will organize to protect not only their own interests as workers, but their interests as citizens of a democracy. They will develop economic and political power, and insist that democratic principles be applied both in industry and in government. They will demand an 'all-out' war effort, with no reduction in standards of living that are not obviously necessary, and they will demand the right to share democratically in the remoulding of a shattered world when victory has been won.

"They will not go back to the unemployment, the misery, the abject poverty of the pre-war years, for they know that, in spite of the material losses which war entails, Canada can be made a land of plenty, of economic security, of happiness and well-being for everyone within its borders. This is the vision which sustains them and inspires them on Labor Day, 1941."

War Savings Stamps have taken on a new dress and new interest with the new issue. There are now eight new designs, each one featuring a special branch of the service. Pictured are the Navy, the Air Force, Mechanized Army, First Canadian Tank, Artillery, Coastal Defence and Anti-Aircraft Guns, and the Auxiliary Nursing Service.

Our Week-End Cash Specials

Hamburger	Lb.	15
Compressed Ham	Lb.	40
Fowl	Lb.	20
Roasting Chicken	Lb.	25
Own Cured Ham, whole or half	Lb.	28
Picnic Ham	Lb.	22
Green Peppers	3 Lbs.	25
Shortening	3-Lb. Pail.	65
Pork-and-veal Hamburger	Lb.	20
Green Tomatoes	Lb.	4c

FRESH FISH DIRECT FROM VANCOUVER EVERY THURSDAY

Fresh Lamb - Chicken - Lard - Butter - Eggs

CENTRAL MEAT MARKET

Phone 294 V. KRIVSKY, PROP. P. O. Box 32

"IT DOES TASTE GOOD IN A PIPE!"
HANDY SEAL-TIGHT POUCH—10
W-LR "LOK-TOP" TIN—45¢
also packed in Pocket Tin

cobac

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

The Forgotten Route

There are some peculiar anomalies in connection with what is known as the Hudson Bay route comprising the Hudson Bay Railway and the port of Churchill and its facilities and H. S. Potter, President of the On-to-the-Bay Association, was rendering a public service to the people of Western Canada recently when he drew attention to some of them, and inferentially issued a warning when he said: "Many people in Canada, no doubt, hope that it has joined the limbo of things forgotten. We in the West should see that this is not the case."

When Mr. H. S. Potter wrote the article in which the foregoing quotation appeared he had just returned from participation in the ninth annual Canadian National Railway excursion to Churchill. On that trip, he noted some peculiar things and made some observations on what he saw and heard which not only prove to be interesting but which are of sufficient importance to warrant some head being paid by those whose interests are vitally affected, the people of the west.

After the outbreak of the war, when it was found that apparently the facilities of the Bay route were not to be used for commercial purposes or for more effective prosecution of the war, apprehension was felt, and expressed in some quarters, that the roadbed might be allowed to disintegrate, the steel rails to rust or be removed for other purposes and the whole system be permitted to run down at heels. Fortunately, this is not the case, for Mr. Potter records as a fact that "the roadbed is in good shape and the passing tracks are being maintained to a high degree of proficiency."

That, and the fact that the 2,500,000 bushels of wheat which has been in storage in the Churchill terminal facilities for a couple of years, is in a state of first class preservation, despite rumors to the contrary, must afford some satisfaction and are matters for congratulation.

Amazed Americans

But what evidently disturbed Mr. Potter and amazed the 188 Americans from 31 States of the Union who made the trip, was the fact that these facilities, which are evidently being maintained in first class condition are not being used and especially at a time when they might naturally be expected to be utilized to relieve congestion in other Canadian ports burdened by heavy war traffic.

When American visitors voiced their surprise that these splendid facilities are not being used, said Mr. Potter, "the only excuse we could find to offer was that officials in charge of ships and convoys would not sanction traffic in and out of the Bay."

Based on what he appeared to regard as conclusive evidence, Mr. Potter is apparently of the opinion that there is no valid reason why timber which is now being hauled from one end of the Dominion to the other for use in Great Britain could not be handled via the Bay route and for the greater part of the year. Incidentally, in substantiating his opinion, he explodes the theory still held in the east and perhaps by some people in the west that navigation through Churchill is restricted the greater part of the year by climatic conditions.

"I was given to understand," said Mr. Potter, "that at the present time Great Britain is using a very considerable amount of timber which is being hauled all the way across the continent and shipped from ports that are already highly congested. Officials at Churchill made the positive assertion that such shipments could be handled through Churchill in almost any amount and that such shipments could be continued during the greater part of the winter months."

Should Freeze Chains

The interesting, not to say informative statement that shipments could be made during the greater part of the winter will, undoubtedly, come as a surprise, even to many in the west who have been sufficiently interested in the development of this $50,000,000 asset to follow its fortunes, or misfortunes, to date. Mr. Potter gives chapter and verse for this assertion in the following words:

"It appears that ice forms in the estuary of the Churchill River some time in the month of November, but if a comparatively small amount of money was spent for a breakwater to deflect this ice from the dredged channel, ships could come up to the docks without any difficulty."

"Even when shore ice would impede the movement of such ships, the assertion was made, that it would be a very simple matter to lay tracks on the ice when timber loading could be continued as long as ships could be navigated through the Bay and the Straits, which, apparently is twelve months in the year."

Perhaps as long as the war is in progress, little can be done, under the circumstances, to encourage use of this short route between Canada and Europe, but the people of the West who fought for these facilities for 50 years and who have paid the bill, will be well advised not to forget its existence and whenever opportunity occurs to press its claims for greater consideration than it is now receiving so that, to quote Mr. Potter, "some day the benefits of this route will accrue to the lasting benefit of the whole of the Dominion of Canada."

Photography Will Help

Color Pictures Help Fix Best Time For Picking Fruit

Color photography in California is helping determine just when and how to pick, store and ship fruit.

Several crates of plums or pears are picked at a given stage of ripeness and photographed. Loaded into refrigerator cars, some are put in the warmest place, others in the coldest place available. Temperatures are recorded automatically all the way across the continent. On arrival in New York the fruit is photographed again, giving a record of what happened to the color en route.

The experiment is expected to enable growers to select the proper degree of ripeness for picking and the best temperature for shipping.

Nervous Restless Girls!

Grumpy? Restless? Can't sleep? Tired? Anxious? Irritable? Annoyed by female friends? Disordered and monthly distress? Then take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, famous for over 50 years in helping such run-down, weak, nervous conditions. Made especially for women. WILL WORK! TRY IT!

Speed Creates Problem

Stronger Material Must Be Found For Construction Of Aircraft

The faster modern aircraft fly, the sooner some new and stronger material must be found to replace the present aluminum alloy used in construction of all-metal planes, in the opinion of Dr. John E. Younger, winner this year of aviation's coveted award, the Spirit of St. Louis gold medal. He has concluded that aluminum alloy will have to be replaced by a stronger material, possibly steel to withstand the terrific stress of higher-speed flying.

A Queen's Displeasure

For many decades, Queen Victoria would never set foot inside Portsmouth, because following on Royal reception there early in her reign, her household received a bill for the carpet laid down for her entry into the city building.

The Greatest Peril

The principal cause of forest fires is human beings. Lightning causes about three per cent.; smokers, 26 per cent.; debris burners, 15 per cent.; incendiaries, 26 per cent.; lumbering, two per cent.; and unknown causes, 15 per cent.

Canadian Research

Taking Advantage Of Lessons Learned From The War

Through a vast army of scientific workers on both sides of the Atlantic, Britain is taking advantage of lessons learned under service conditions by her fighting men. Sir Lawrence Bragg, scientific liaison officer between Canada and the United Kingdom, said:

"Groups of Canadian experts visit Britain to see how the equipment they have designed stands up under actual war conditions. Similar groups of British experts come to Canada to see the designs and instruments produced here."

"In this way thousands of scientific men have been bound into one great army which spreads from Britain to Canada and over into the United States," Sir Lawrence said.

"Production is linked directly with conditions met in the field," Sir Lawrence said. The need for this co-ordination grew out of "the terrible reality that a mistake cannot be made even once."

"No matter how good a weapon or an instrument may be," he said, "if you haven't tried it yourself you will rather risk the victory or defeat and the lives of millions of people on the unknown."

That was the situation at the beginning of the war, but it had changed in two years. Canadian research and production had gone ahead so fast and actual results of instruments and weapons in use had been so good that "complete confidence" in Dominion workmanship has gradually grown up.

"Now Britain knows that if Canada says 400 of anything ordered will be ready on a certain date and will be capable of a certain quality and degree of performance, it will be so," he said.

The change was greatly aided by the missions of technical and research experts, both British and Canadian. British experts, "they are the progress being made in Canada and the actual functioning of ideas which on paper may have appeared inadequate or overrated they are often amazed," he said. "They go back to make recommendations which might be impossible without this constant contact and consultation."

Accurate Records

Made Possible By Camera Of R.A.F. Coastal Command

Britain's R.A.F. coastal command, the world's biggest users of photographic materials, clicks the shutters of its cameras every 60 seconds of the war. In the month of April the command took photographs at the rate of 500,400 a year, using 104,000 square feet of film and $13,000 sheets of bromide paper. All this material, as well as vast quantities for export, is supplied without difficulty by Britain's own manufacturers.

Not only does the command record every movement of the enemy across the narrow seas, but it keeps the eagle eye of its cameras upon suspicious looking surface craft. The pilots are themselves highly trained in the observation of ship types, but when in doubt a photograph rushed to the naval authorities for identification is enough to ensure that she is speedily brought in for examination by the contraband control.

U.S. VOLUNTEER SERVICE HEAD IN LONDON

Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of the Volunteer Special Services of the American Red Cross, is shown here as she talks with a Red Cross dispatch rider during an inspection at the Red Cross headquarters in London recently. Mrs. Davis is in London on a short visit and has made a fine comb inspection of the Red Cross and St. John war organization departments.

HEADS Q.W.N.A.

Walter R. Legge, manager of the Granby Printing and Publishing Co. has been elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association.

Tobacco Fund

Ten Million Cigarettes Sent Overseas To Fighting Forces

Every 25c sent to the Overseas Tobacco Fund, 255 Bay Street, Toronto, buys 100 cigarettes for soldiers, sailors, airmen and merchant marine who are defending us.

Four packages of 25 cigarettes each go overseas, or to Iceland, Newfoundland, etc., where needed, and each package has a postcard in it with your name, so you may get "thank you" direct from the front.

The Overseas League has H.M. The King as patron and is incorporated by Royal charter. The Canadian branch was organized by them with an imposing list of patrons headed by H.E. The Right Honourable The Earl of Athlone, K.G., Governor-General of Canada.

While it is impossible to send cigarettes to individuals through the fund, you can be assured that every dollar contributed is appreciated by the men in the services who have already received over ten million cigarettes from Canada through the fund.

A Good Idea

Using Hitler's Real Name In Propaganda Might Break His Power

The Overseas Daily Mail carries this suggestion by "Psychologist," Cranbrook, Kent.

Hitler started life with the name of Schickelgruber. It was not until he was 40 that he took the name of Hitler. Hitler, for the Germans, is now a name invested with magical powers. Why not restore in propaganda the name of Schickelgruber? A systematic use of it in our foreign broadcasts might do much to break the undoubted power of the other name abroad.

To Speed Up Workers

The British government has introduced "pep" methods in a campaign to increase war supplies. Production managers broadcast talks to workers and posters urging increased output have been tacked to factory walls. A placard in a bomb-filling station read: "You make the best bombs. Our airmen drop them."

Canadian territory extends over 84 degrees of longitude and 48 degrees of latitude.

The Noise Cure

Unique Method Adopted In Britain To Tame Nervous Troubles

Two R.A.M.C. specialists in psychological medicine at a military hospital write on a topic of general interest in the "British Medical Journal." They have been dealing with cases of neurotic breakdown caused "in part precipitated by the unaccustomed stress of noises, such as gunfire, shell-bursts, exploding bombs, sirens, planes and diving-bombs."

Contrary to what many people may think is the first condition of effecting a cure, they have found that a repetition or imitation of war noises may actually assist the patient back to a sense of composure and control; and that treatment has been successfully applied, first with a portable field siren and "tin boxes and sticks" and later, with the help of the BBC, by the use of gramophone records of actual warfare.

Patients are also reminded by word of mouth of what is an undoubted fact, that other people have grown used to such noises and the experience associated with them. "Men, women and children in our badly bombed cities have developed a new lease of life. They are in better mental trim than those in safe areas." It is, in short, the unknown that unnerves—Manchester Guardian.

Keep The Wheels Turning

Tests Go To Show That Chewing Relieves Nervous Tension

Workers, whether in offices, stores, factories, or munition plants, are seeking in these vital days to do more work, better work. Management is quick to adopt ways and means to help employees keep refreshed while on the job. Recent tests made in some munition plants show that chewing gum while working helps relieve fatigue and nervous tension. As a result, many industrial plants provide facilities so that employees may have chewing gum available at all times. Recent tests conducted by Wm. Wrigley Jr. Company, Limited, in co-operation with plant management, indicate workers find refreshment by chewing gum while they work, the chewing helping to relieve fatigue and nervous tension.

THROAT SORE?

For common ordinary sore throats, just rub on MINARD'S "TONGUE OF FIRE" LINIMENT.

Zulu Progress

Medical Missionary Fute South African Witch Doctors Out Of Business

Dr. James B. McCord, medical missionary, has returned to the United States after 41 years of putting South African witch doctors and medicine men out of business. For many years he made little progress among the Zulu natives because of their superstitions. But when he retired in the fall of 1940 at Durban, South Africa, the people had named after him streets, babies, medicines and a $50,000 hospital.

Mr. McCord established the first hospital for Negroes in the area and was the first to train native nurses and medical aides. A native of Illinois, he will reside with his wife at Oakham, Mass.

Plenty Of Energy Needed

When Postmen Carry Heavy Load Up Flights Of Stairs

According to a report of the medical branch of the British postoffice on stair climbing by postmen in big blocks of flats, as cited in the London Daily Mail, a postman's maximum load is 35 pounds. He uses one and a half times more energy per minute going up and down stairs than on the level. One postman climbed 1,449 steps every morning—nearly the height of the Eiffel Tower. An average postman climbs at the rate of 80 stairs a minute—40 up, 40 down. He walks at the rate of three miles an hour—90 yards a minute. Four postmen, the oldest 56 and the youngest 25, were selected for the tests.

During 1939 Canada consumed 32,301,000 pounds of wool.

Flavour
... but so elusive

WHEN THAT DELICIOUS ROAST BEGINS TO COOL... THEN FLAVOUR AND MOISTURE STEALTHILY SLIP AWAY. KEEP THAT FLAVOUR AND MOISTURE IN YOUR MEATS... BY WRAPPING THEM IN

Appleford PAPER PRODUCTS LIMITED
HAMILTON • TORONTO • MONTREAL

THE BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE

Member of The

Office of Publication
BLAIRMORE, ALBERTA

Subscription, to all parts of the Dominion, $2.00 per annum; United States and Great Britain, $2.50; Foreign, $3.00, payable in advance.

Business locals, 15c per line.

Legal notices, 15c per line for first insertion; 12c per line for each subsequent insertion.

Display advertising rates on application.

W. J. BARTLETT, PUBLISHER

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., Sept. 19, 1941.

V

For Victory

UNITY : AUSTERITY

The strength of a giant cable comes from the combined strength of millions of little strands that are united in a common purpose. Alone, these strands are weak, but when they support and help each other they can bear a tremendous strain, for they all pull together.

That is what is needed in Canada: the pull together. That is what will give us strength to make our war effort fully effective, and courage to face and conquer post-war problems. We must all pull together for one common purpose—a greater war-effort and a Better Canada.

We, the citizens of Canada, are the strands that make up the national cable. We, as individuals, have little strength by ourselves, but when we pull together we have strength far beyond our comprehension. We are all interdependent and must work together. Anything that blocks co-operation and united effort must be removed. We must each, as individuals, adapt ourselves to those around us, realizing that our neighbors, too, have a part to play, and that it is only by united effort that results will be obtained.

Race, creed, political opinion and personal interests must be subordinated to national interests. All have parts to play; there is room for all. But all must have a common purpose and must pull one way, so that the cable of national resolve shall be strong and flawless to bear the strain that the coming years will bring.

Let us forget our differences and disagreements; let us put aside sectionalism, class and self-interest. Let us concentrate upon those many things that we have in common and gird on the armor of determination to go forward in war and peace as a united nation seeking to make Democracy a living vital thing.

The immediate, pressing need is to increase our war effort. To do this we must deflect men, money and machines from peace-time production to the output of war materials. Every man, every dollar and every machine that is not needed to provide the basic necessities of living must be dedicated to our war effort.

There is a limit to the productive capacity of the country. There is no limit to the need for war material and money to pay for it. Men, money, machines and material can only be made available for war work by limitation of civilian consumption. We, as civilians, must be prepared to restrict our expenditures and simplify our mode of living so that these essential "Four M's" can be released to drive forward production of war materials. This is a national need that must take precedence over self-interest, self-indulgence and comfortable

"Don't you wish we could shorten the war?"

He: "Well, in a way we can, you know."

She: "But, George, we're not trained to do anything..."

He: "Training doesn't matter for what I'm thinking about. I was wondering whether we couldn't put more of our income into War Savings Certificates."

She: "And why not? We might have to go without one or two pet luxuries—but wouldn't it be worth it to bring back peace again?"

He: "And won't we be glad of the money—and the interest it will have earned—in a world without war restrictions!"

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

SPEND LESS—TO BUY MORE WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

FISH STORIES

The Creston Review comes along with another "bear story." It seems that two citizens of a nearby hamlet went out fishing on Goat river. They met a bear with a fish in its mouth. The bear dropped the fish on encountering the men, and the two fishermen picked it up and brought it back to town, with the bruin's teeth marks to prove the story.

Lissen, you B.C. bums, and we'll tell you a real fish story!

When Eli Sandford was section foreman at Cassila, he once went down to Lake Nowell to fish. On the shore of the lake he saw a snake with a frog in its mouth. Of course, Eli took the frog away for bait.

But being a compassionate soul, Eli took a flask of Scotch out of his hip pocket and put a couple of drops in the snake's mouth to recompense it for the loss of the frog.

Then Eli went on about his fishing. Suddenly he felt a tap against his leg, and looking down he saw the snake with another frog in its mouth, holding it up to him.—Brooks Bulletin.

Gordon MacGowan, of Macleod, has been visiting here with his uncle and aunt, Sergt. and Mrs. T. Mudiman.

Readers of an Alberta weekly newspaper were recently appalled to see an ad announcing the annual chicken supper of the ladies' club billed as a "Foul Supper."

We must learn to live simply and austerely. We must forego luxuries and all needless expenditures. Our whole outlook on life and living must be "What can I do, what can I give up, to help Canada?"—L. D. Willis, Port Hope, Ontario.

EVERYTHING HAS GONE TO GERMANY

Repeatedly, stories have been told of the German's way of emptying shops of their supplies. To what extent the Germans are carrying out this practice is told by a shop assistant to a friend of hers now with the Free French Forces:

"We are in the midst of great changes here. All the goods have been taken into the back shop as we have no more supplies or wool now. Everything has been removed, so you can guess whether there are empty spaces if a large shop can be transferred entirely into a tiny little one! Alas! everything has gone to Germany."

"Paris is sad and lifeless. I went there to try to do some shopping, but really there is nothing to buy. Don't regret that you are not there."

RESERVED SPACE

This space was reserved for a letter to the Editor, which failed to arrive, from Geo. Sangster, ESQUIRE, which he has been preparing for the past two weeks. Subject, "What I Know About Women." His explanation is that he does not want to complete same until after he returns from his vacation trip.

New Bride: "Will it cost much to feather our nest?"

Billy Evans: "Oh, no; just a little down."

She wears no socks in winter. That needs cause alarm. For she has a pair of knock knees. And the friction keeps her warm.

WHEN THE R.A.F. SMASHED THE ATTEMPTED INVASION

The following cable was received from London by the Free French Information service:

London, Aug. 22.—The terrible toll taken by R.A.F. pilots on the German troops gathered at Le Havre for an invasion of England nearly a year ago has just been told by a young Frenchman, 19, who escaped from a French ship to join Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French Forces after many adventures.

"I was at Le Havre in occupied France," states Z—, the 19-year-old soldier. "I could see each day the German flag and the swastika flying over French monuments. The Germans were everywhere, in administrative buildings, barracks, hospitals, etc., and were preparing to invade England."

"During the month of September last, I witnessed one of these attempts. At least thirty thousand Germans were drowned. The Royal Air Force was well informed and their warcraft arrived at the psychological moment to bomb the Germans. As the latter were not over enthusiastic to cross the Channel, their officers had locked them in their ships, and when the R.A.F. bombers arrived we could hear their screams."

"I left Le Havre on June 26th last on my way to Marseilles, believing it would be more easy to reach the Free French Forces from there. On June 27th, I was arrested by the Germans when I crossed from the occupied zone to unoccupied France. I was sent to jail in Tours. I found three hundred men there who had also attempted to leave in order to join Gen. de Gaulle. Immediately on my release, I managed to get through and thumping my way, arrived in Marseilles on July 24th."

"My luck beginning to turn, I joined a ship leaving for Syria. As we neared the coast, the strictest watch was kept in order to prevent anyone from leaving the ship."

"I managed to squeeze through a porthole, but as I am not a good swimmer, I would have certainly drowned if I had not been saved by a brave Australian soldier who threw me a rope."

THE BEGGARS

They beg to inquire and they beg to state,
They beg to advise and they beg to relate;
They beg to observe and they beg to mention,
They beg to call your kind attention;
They beg to remark and they beg to remind,
They beg to inform you will herewith find;
They beg to announce and they beg to intrude,
They beg to explain and they beg to include;
They beg to acknowledge, they beg to reply,
They beg to apologize, beg to deny;
They reluctantly beg for a moment of time,
They beg to submit you an offer sublime;
Till I wish I could put that annoying array
Of beggars on horseback and send them away!
—Dunville Chronicle.

Yesterday's eastbound express was delayed about five and a half hours by storms in British Columbia.

Delbert Ennis returned on Wednesday's night's train from Hamilton, where he attended the conventions of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Traveller (in hotel): "Can I have something to eat?"

Waitress: "Yes; what would you like?"

Traveller: "What have you got?"

Waitress: "Oh, we've got everything."

Traveller: "Alright; I'll have a bit of everything."

Waitress (shouting to cook): "One stew."

BE AN EDITOR

Some of Will Carleton's happy days must have been spent on a country weekly newspaper. That he knows many of the trials and tribulations, and some of the joys of being a community editor, is to be seen by these lines:

The editor sat on his sanctum,

And looked the old man in the eye;
Then glanced at the grinning young hopeful,

And mournfully made his reply:

Is your son a small unbound edition
Of Moses and Solomon both?

Can he compass his spirit with meekness,

And strangle a natural oath?

Can he leave all his wrongs to the future,

And carry his heart in his cheek?

Can he do an hour's work in a minute,
And live on a sixpence a week?

Can he courteously talk to an equal
And browbeat an impudent dunce?

Can he keep things in apple-pie order,
And do half a dozen at once?

Can he press all the springs of his knowledge

With quick and reliable touch,

And be sure that he knows how much to know,

And knows how to know too much?

Does he know how to spur up his virtue,

And put a check-rein on his pride?

Can he carry a gentleman's manners
Without a rhinoceros hide?

Can he know all, and do all, and be all,
With cheerfulness, courage and vim?

If so, we perhaps can be making
An editor outen of him!

—"V"

Carry your registration certificate.

WATCH FOR THE SYMPTOMS

For the information of the public, the Alberta department of health has issued a statement on sleeping sickness, or encephalomyelitis in horses and humans. There are two types, eastern and western. The eastern type is caused by a distinctly different virus than the western. Clinically the eastern is much more severe. Wide range of animals, including birds, may suffer. Man can contract the disease from animals. Biting insects may transmit it, as may horses by contact. Sleeping sickness takes about two weeks to materialize after exposure. It appears abruptly, usually with fever of 105-106 F. and severe headaches, or generalized aches and pains, cramps, vomiting, with or without bowel movements. Sleepiness sets in after three or four days. It is preceded usually by the excitement stage—irritability, restlessness, tremors, muscle twitches, sometimes delirium and convulsions. Light hurts the patient's eyes. With the western type, about 60 per cent will recover after the acute stage; 20 per cent will make part recovery over several years. Ten to fifteen per cent of cases will prove fatal.

A party of clergymen were attending a Presbyterian conference in Scotland. Several set off to explore the district. Presently they came to a river, spanned by a temporary bridge. Not observing a notice that the bridge was unsafe, they started to cross it. The bridge-keeper ran after them in protest.

"It's all right," declared the spokesman, not understanding the reason for the old man's haste, "we're Presbyterians from the conference."

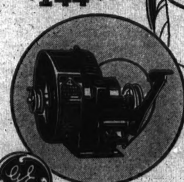

"I'm no' carin' about that," was the reply. "But if ye dinna get aff the bridge ye'll all be Baptists."

PRICED LOWER!

GENERAL ELECTRIC GASOLINE-DRIVEN WASHER

9-1 GASOLINE MOTOR WASHERS—With or without pump. Air-cooled gasoline motor. Fast look of eye quest! capacity—Enough for any average family washing. Easy starting—economical, quiet, and dependable. . . . Price

$144.50

MADE IN CANADA

ALL the convenience and energy saving features of the electric models, are found in this beautiful General Electric "gasoline-powered" Washer. There is the exclusive G-E Activator that creates three washing zones, cleansing thoroughly and gently—The long-life perma-drive mechanism with only four moving parts. A G-E washer is lubricated for life—Ask your dealer about the special new low price—A G-E Washer is your best buy.

FOR SALE BY

M. Litvack - - - Blairmore
Pattinson Hardware - Coleman

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

APPEAL FOR BROKEN
ALUMINUM ARTICLES

The women of Canada are being afforded an opportunity to emulate their cousins in Great Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand, by giving worn out and broken utensils and otherwise useless aluminum articles to help the Canadian Red Cross Society. The National War Services department is launching a Dominion-wide drive for this material, needed in the manufacture of airplanes and other war equipment.

Concentration points are being established, and citizens are asked to bring their materials to those compounds. All worn-out, broken or useless aluminum articles should be cleared out of each home and brought to the community pile. The department requests that useful articles, which would have to be replaced, should not be given. Appropriate articles would be leaky pots, pans which burn only in one spot, old shoe trees, broken shakers, golf clubs that will not be used again, and broken parts of washing machines and sweepers. In fact, all aluminum articles that are not required in the home.

The material collected in this campaign will be rushed to Canadian factories. Twenty-eight thousand pounds of this aluminum will build a modern bomber plane, and 4,000 pounds a modern fighter plane.

Every Canadian woman is anxious to assist in the successful prosecution of the war. Here is an opportunity for her to make a most valuable contribution.

The Blairmore Branch of the Red Cross Society has made arrangements for collection depots at all the local garages; the campaign to start on Friday next, September 26th, and continue till the evening of the 27th.

Start now, weeding out all aluminum wares that you consider of no further use to you. Bring it to one of the garages on 26th or 27th, thereby doing your part in the great undertaking.

The editor of the Stately Advertiser urges the singing of the National Anthem at the close of all church services, and states that one church official said that the National Anthem was being sung too much nowadays, and that there were other hymns in the hymnal besides the National Anthem. In another town he was told by a member of a church that they would stand up but not sing. In another town he got the surprise of his life. The organist absolutely refused to play the National Anthem—would quit the position if the church adopted the singing of this anthem! A congregational meeting was held after the service, at which the editor was present. The organist won out, because there was no other organist, so the church went on record against singing the National Anthem at any of its services. What a fine non-patriotic state of affairs is existing here in Southern Alberta. Are these good-going church people Nazi sympathizers? he asks. If so, why not run them all into an internment camp for the duration of the war?

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilson and two sons have returned from a vacation trip to the Sunny South.

Due to there having been three weeks extra holidays, caused by the provincial health ban, Principal Hoyle, of Coleman, is giving serious thought to the idea of scheduling classes up to 4.30 each afternoon to partly make up for lost time and also to a great degree compensate for the weeks that have been missed.

Harry H. Gardner, for five years in the employ of the McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co., at Coleman, has accepted a position with the West Canadian Collieries here. Prior to leaving Coleman, he was tendered a farewell and presented with a handsome fishing rod as an expression of the esteem in which he was held. He is an ardent sport, his favorite pastimes, besides fishing, being tennis, badminton and hockey.

THE PASS EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO

(The Blairmore Enterprise, 1923)
Sept. 6.—The sixth annual Bellevue flower show went over the top again with the best all round display of flowers and vegetables. The show was held in the school building. There were fifty cars in the big parade at 10 a.m., all gayly decorated. The Bellevue band headed the parade, and played later at the sports grounds.

Robert Morgan was killed in a Coleman mine on Tuesday. He was a cousin of Evan Morgan, of Blairmore; Joseph Morgan, of Lundbreck, and George Morgan, of Coleman. He was forty-four years of age.

Carl Smith, Bartlett and party were on a big game hunting expedition in the North Kootenay Pass.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McKay, of Great Falls, Montana, were visiting here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. McKay.

Robert Livett, international board member of the U. M. W. of A., accompanied by Jim Burke, were this week attending the Trades and Labor Congress at Vancouver. They were sent out from Blairmore with prayers for God speed, but were just on the outskirts of town when they were blessed with tire trouble.

A party living less than an hour's walk from here had occasion to cross the international boundary, accompanied by Johnnie Walker. At the line customs authorities searched all baggage, finding nothing outlandish. Later an officer spotted a coat hanging opposite a double seat. It looked suspicious, as though weighted down on one side. The owner of the coat denied any knowledge of its ownership, so the officer grabbed the coat and departed. Johnnie was in the car, and the owner has not since smiled.

Sept. 13.—The marriage of Miss Jean Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Patterson, to Mr. Frank T. Campbell, took place at Cranbrook. Miss Patterson had just graduated in nursing.

D. H. Proudfoot, grand master of the Blairmore Chapter, Lodge of Oddfellows, attended a mass I.O.O.F. meeting at Coleman on Monday night. He was accompanied by Past Grand Master J. A. Tully, of Alberta.

Mrs. M. Stitt, of Calgary, was visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson.

Cardinal Begin, of Quebec, was campaigning against the illicit manufacturers of liquor.

Joe Legace was hunting dandelions and mushrooms, equipped with a sectional fish rod and cast of hooks.

Alphonse Fabro got lost in the bush for a few days. When found his hair was almost white, and a lot of it had disappeared.

Sept. 20.—The marriage of Miss Sara W. McCall, former Blairmore teacher, to Mr. C. V. Roberts, took place at Spokane on August 14th.

Rev. F. S. McCall, principal of Alberta College, was elected district governor of the Kiwanians at Moose Jaw.

Beautifully upholstered armchairs have been installed in all first-floor rooms of the Cosmopolitan hotel.

Mrs. F. M. Pinkney left by train the early part of the week for Winnipeg, where she will visit for a while with her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Harper.

In the height of the rain storm on Thursday morning, a car passed west through Blairmore prepared to face all weather obstacles. On top of the car was a boat, in the boat a seaplane; a bicycle was lashed to the rear of the car, plus several pairs of hip-high boots.

We understand that Mr. Frank Baringham, for many years in the taxi business at Coleman, is leaving shortly to take up residence at the Pacific coast. His son, Oliver, will continue in the taxi service. Frank will be keenly missed in this district, not only as a popular taxicab, but by organizations in which he has always maintained an active interest, particularly the Elks. All Elks of this district wish him well, and that he will recover his wonted health.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS

Miss Nina Passmore, R.N., is visiting her parents here.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howell Powell on Tuesday, the 16th.

We noticed a picture of a mouse a few days ago with only the hind hoofs cloven.

Mrs. Lily Apponen was down from Calgary on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Charles Harrison.

Mrs. J. W. Howe and daughter Lucille spent the week with relatives and friends at Pincher Creek.

Lynn J. Irwin, of Des Moines, Iowa, has been elected grand sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the I.O.O.F.

In 1903 Brooks and Rathbun at High River were mining and selling soft coal for $2.00 per ton, according to Bob Edwards.

An exchange says: There is this to be said about the French programme of the C.B.C.—they are much more audible than the English.

Miss Louise Knapman arrived from Bellingham, Wash., last night, on a visit to her father here, and sister, Mrs. R. G. Foot, in Bellevue.

The famous mounted police dog, Dale of Cawalla, died in Calgary. Dale was owned by Sgt. J. N. Cawsey and was twelve years old.

Guide: "This, ladies and gentlemen, is the greatest cataract in the country, and if the ladies will only be silent for a moment, you can hear the deafening roar of the waters."

The Vulcan Advocate remarks: Rural gas station operators have complained that wholesalers and country dealers have been selling to consumers in drum lots in spite of the new restrictions.

Diseases we have to worry about these days include small pox, itch, diphtheria, measles, mumps, neuritis, peritonitis, arthritis, tetanitis, gonorrhea, encephalitis, poliomyelitis and gin fix.

Forty years ago Tuesday last (September 16, 1901) the Duke and Duchess of York, afterwards King George V. and Queen Mary, landed at Quebec to begin a tour of Canada, which took them as far west as Victoria.

Grand prizes for the forthcoming Elks' carnival, a bedroom suite and a chesterfield suite, have been on display in the windows of the Blairmore Exchange and Blairmore Hardware Co. Tickets are in great demand.

It's a strange twist in fortune's wheel; but when Hitler attacked the Russians, he did the world a great service. He ended Russia's isolation and paved the way for an exchange of ideas that will be good for the Russians and good for us. — H. V. O'Brien.

Calgary Elks will celebrate the 20th anniversary of their organization by a banquet to be held at the Buffalo Cafe tonight. Dr. J. L. Gibson was the lodge's first E. R., with M. P. J. Lawson as first secretary. Today's exalted ruler is S. T. Vickerman, with Sam S. Savage as secretary.

"Why should the people work and toil and never have a full stomach or a secure roof, and wealth going to waste everywhere? Why not strike an international balance sheet on surplus commodities . . . give . . . share . . . produce . . . use. Must the Chinese peasant live forever on rice and scrap fish? Why should he? — Winston Churchill.

The editor of this paper was present Tuesday at the banquet of the Calgary Board of Trade, thus saving High River from being wiped off the map. Though Mr. W. H. Cushing was in the chair, there was a very fair line of booze. Neither Mr. Haultain, Mr. Bennett nor Mr. Young was able to be present, owing to the question of anatomy coming up in the house that day. But there were lots of good speeches without them. — Calgary Eye Opener, 1903.

Drumheller experienced a $100,000 fire yesterday.

Sandy Ferguson leaves this week and for Del Bonita, where he will take the school principalship.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent has returned to England after a successful tour of Canada and Newfoundland.

A local guy who is boosting for advertising support for city dailies had better display a little real interest in his home town.

Pete wanted to know what L.D.S. meant following the name of a dentist. He was told they represented Latter Day Saints. Now, Doc, be careful!

Sergt-Pilot Douglas Wilson arrived in England recently to take his place with other boys from Blairmore and district in the great effort of defending our Empire.

The Pincher Creek School Division No. 29 has purchased the large Double residence, to be used as a dormitory to accommodate pupils from the districts taking high school courses.

For every new or renewal subscription for two years—$4.00—turned in to The Enterprise office prior to October 16th, we will give a beautiful china berry dish valued at $1.10. Get busy now.

Ian Arrol returned home Wednesday evening to spend a few days with his parents. Ian has now taken up radio announcing, and is offered positions with radio stations CFRN, Edmonton (as news announcer); CJCB, Calgary, and CJOC, Lethbridge. He will take the CJOC position and will commence duties there on Monday. Previously Ian was employed as city reporter on the Albertan, resigning to accept one of radio offers.

A flock of geese settled on Lee Lake Monday morning, just for a drink. After their departure it was reported the water surface was four inches lower than before their arrival.

So much building is going on in this district that carpenters, masons, etc., are at a real premium. Much more building is planned, but men cannot be obtained to do the work.

Those who know
wines
best choose
Bright's

Concord
OR CATAWBA
in
GALLON JARS
and in bottles

Lovers of good wine select Bright's to lead all others. This superior wine is now the most popular wine in Canada, chosen for mellow, ripened flavor . . . a fragrant, appealing bouquet. It's made from special types of wine-grapes, available to Bright's alone. Whether you prefer ruddy Concord or tawny Catawba, Bright's will delight you, too.

This advertisement is not inserted by the Alberta Liquor Control Board, or by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

SUBSCRIBE NOW TO YOUR FAVOURITE MAGAZINES AND THIS NEWSPAPER AT A BARGAIN PRICE

THE THRIFTY ECONOMICAL WAY TO SUBSCRIBE TO THIS NEWSPAPER AND YOUR FAVOURITE MAGAZINES AT SENSATIONALLY LOW PRICES

These offers are good for new or renewal orders. It will pay you to look them over and send us the coupon today.

ALL-FAMILY OFFER

This Newspaper, 1 Year, and Your Choice Any Three of These Publications CHECK THREE MAGAZINES—ENCLOSE WITH ORDER

(1) Maclean's Magazine, 1 yr.	(1) Canada Poultryman, 1 yr.
(1) Chatelaine, 1 yr.	(1) American Fruit Grower, 1 yr.
(1) National Home Monthly, 1 yr.	(1) Country Guide & Nor'West Farmer, 2 yrs.
(1) Canadian Horticulture and Home, 1 yr.	(1) Canadian Silver Fox & Fur, 1 yr.
(1) Family Herald & Weekly Star, 1 yr.	(1) Canada Poultry Review, 1 yr.
(1) Free Press Prairie Farmer, 1 yr.	(1) Rod and Gun, 1 yr.
	(1) American Girl, 8 mos.

ALL FOUR ONLY 3.00

SUPER-VALUE OFFER

This Newspaper, 1 Year, and Your Choice of ONE Magazine in Group A and TWO Magazines in Group B MARK AN "X" BEFORE THE MAGAZINES YOU DESIRE

GROUP "A"

(1) Magazine Digest, 6 mos.	(1) Maclean's Magazine, 1 yr.
(1) True Story, 1 yr.	(1) Chatelaine, 1 yr.
(1) Silver Screen, 1 yr.	(1) National Home Monthly, 1 yr.
(1) Christian Herald & Weekly Star, 6 mos.	(1) Canadian Horticulture and Home, 1 yr.
(1) Fact Digest, 1 yr.	(1) Family Herald & Weekly Star, 1 yr.
(1) Science and Discovery, 1 yr.	(1) Free Press Prairie Farmer, 1 yr.
(1) American Boy, 1 yr.	(1) Canada Poultryman, 1 yr.
(1) American Girl, 1 yr.	(1) Rod and Gun, 1 yr.
(1) McCall's Magazine, 1 yr.	(1) American Fruit Grower, 1 yr.
(1) People's Magazine, 6 mos.	(1) Country Guide & Nor'West Farmer, 2 yrs.
(1) Open Road for Boys, 1 yr.	(1) Canadian Silver Fox & Fur, 1 yr.
(1) Home Arts (Needcraft), 1 yr.	(1) Western Producer, 1 yr.
(1) Screenland, 1 yr.	(1) Canada Poultry Review, 1 yr.

ALL FOUR ONLY 3.50

This Newspaper and Your Choice ONE Other Publication at Price Listed.

(1) Maclean's Magazine, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) Chatelaine, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) National Home Monthly, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) Family Herald & Weekly Star, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) Free Press Prairie Farmer, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) McCall's Magazine, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) Western Producer, 1 yr.	2.50
(1) Country Guide & Nor'West Farmer, 2 yrs.	3.00
(1) True Story, 1 yr.	2.75
(1) Silver Screen, 1 yr.	2.75
(1) Rod and Gun, 1 yr.	2.75
(1) American Girl, 1 yr.	2.75
(1) People's Magazine, 6 mos.	3.25
(1) Open Road for Boys, 1 yr.	3.25
(1) Home Arts (Needcraft), 1 yr.	3.25
(1) Screenland, 1 yr.	3.25
(1) Christian Herald, 1 yr.	3.25

FILE OUT COUPON MAIL TODAY

Please fill out list of magazines after checking ones desired. Fill out coupon carefully and mail to your best paper.

Gentlemen: I enclose $. . . I am checking below the order desired with a year's subscription to your paper.

(1) All-Family (1) Super-Value (1) Single Magazine

Name

Post Office

R.R. Province

MAIL COUPON NOW (or HAND IT IN) TO THE BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Arthur Bishop, 18-year-old son of Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, director of Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting, has enlisted in the R.C.A.F.

More than 20,000 children in England are being brought up by 15,000 foster mothers, under supervision of health inspectors.

Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau proposes that Canada wheat be admitted to the United States in larger volume than now is permitted to be imported.

F. L. Jeckell, of Ottawa said he will supervise a branch office in Winnipeg of the industry and sub-contract co-ordination division of the federal department of munitions and supply.

H. J. Symington, Montreal, federal electric power controller and president of the Trans-Canada Air Lines, said in an interview that "some degree of rationing" of electric power in Canada is a possible future development.

Eighteen 21-year-olds in Manitoba who failed to report for four months military training under the national war services regulations will face prosecution proceedings, said an official at the provincial divisional registrar's office.

Alberta mines produced 415,047 tons of coal during July compared with 375,948 tons a year ago and British Columbia produced 154,878 tons against 158,012. Saskatchewan production amounted to 33,848 tons against 30,244.

JAUNTY BELTED TWO-PIECE MODE

By Anne Adams

A two-piece frock is a wardrobe essential for Fall! So get a head-start on the season by making your two-piece right now, from Pattern 4868 by Anne Adams. What an attractive, original style it is—and how quick to stitch up! The top is in the new long, slim lines, with a nice waist accent in an inset belt that holds the bodice close to the soft gathers. The deep, clean-cut V-neck is bordered by a narrow, shapely revers-collared, and the shoulders are kept trim by neat darts. You may choose between short, three-quarter and long sleeves. Have the two pieces in matching fabric, as shown, or let them glow in contrast, perhaps in a colorful wool.

Pattern 4868 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 4½ yards 35 inch fabric. Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Miss Anne Adams, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

In Majorca, Balearic Islands Christmas turkeys are bought early so they can be shown off. The birds are taken for daily walks by the purchasers.

Men first reached the New World by crossing Bering Strait, according to some scientists.

Hard To Suppress

Illegal Publications In Poland Are Real Worry To Nazis

One of the first things the Nazis suppressed in Poland was the press. Pre-war Poland had 2,500 periodical publications, among them 180 daily papers. Today, in German occupied Poland, there are only 10 publications in the Polish language and they are all published by the Nazis. But alongside this Nazi controlled press there is a network of illegal publications.

The full number of these illegal publications is not known, but it is probably not less than 28, and their range is extremely wide.

First of all they are the daily papers; some typed sheets which give the foreign news on the basis of the B.B.C. broadcasts and inside information from Poland.

Then come the weeklies, normally printed. They contain precious inside information from Poland, foreign news and editorials.

There exist also monthly and quarterly reviews which contain synthetic analyses of the war situation.

Special papers are produced for the peasants, for the youth, for the children. There is even a humorous paper, with anti-German cartoons and jokes. And in the Warsaw ghetto there is a Yiddish paper.

Scores of thousands of copies are thus issued, and it can be ascertained that this illegal press reaches practically the entire population.

All these publications entail printing presses—probably concealed in the woods of Poland—well over a hundred editors and contributors, and hundreds of thousands of readers. Every person involved risks his life, for death is the penalty not only for working on an illegal paper, but even for reading it.

Economic Stress

Married Man Maintains Morale Better Than The Single Man

Married men—so far as their morale is concerned—can stand economic stress better than bachelors.

And, when times are tough, married men with several dependents seem to have a more cheerful outlook on life than those without such responsibilities.

These conclusions were reported to the American Psychological Association by Prof. Goodwin Watson, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York. He based them on the attitudes of 539 unemployed men studied by the adjustment service in New York during the uncertain days of January and February, 1934.

Two yardsticks to measure their morale were used. One was designed to measure occupational morale, stressing ambition and the belief that one gets ahead by hard work rather than by "luck or pull." The other, a life satisfaction index, compiled by Prof. Watson, included the liking for people and various kinds of activities, tough-mindedness which prevents worrying over minor failures or slights, and freedom from grouches, nervousness, fears and unhappiness.

Prof. Watson said that it was found that morale, in the sense of life satisfaction and faith that effort counts, will be better maintained not only by men of families, but by those who are religious, those who hold office in several organizations, and those whose work is teaching, writing, selling or in executive positions.

A Medical Experiment

Scientists Testing Cheaply-Produced Vaccine For Curing Typhus

High in the Andes mountains, three eminent scientists and thousands of Bolivian miners are participating in a medical experiment that may save millions of lives when the present war ends. During the coming year, the scientists, using Indian miners in isolated villages as patients, will determine whether a new, cheaply-produced vaccine for typhus fever is the long-sought cure for the dread disease that usually follows wars.

The vaccine was discovered by Dr. Harold R. Cox at the U.S. Public Health Service Laboratory, Hamilton, Mont.

Word comes from Toronto that leather coats for the seamen are urgently needed for men on the trawlers and minesweepers, destroyers and battleships will need warmth against the penetrating cold of the Atlantic again this winter.

Leather Coats For Seamen

Word comes from Toronto that leather coats for the seamen are urgently needed for men on the trawlers and minesweepers, destroyers and battleships will need warmth against the penetrating cold of the Atlantic again this winter.

A Quorum Occupied

Peeling onions provided a living for Peter Tyler, London, England, for more than 50 years. This professional peeler could peel three quarters of a ton of onions in a single day.

WAR SAVINGS BOMB PREPARED

Picture shows the 500-lb aerial bomb in the War Savings exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition being photographed, carrying the names of thousands of Canadians and Americans who purchased War Savings Stamps or Certificates at the "B." The bomb will later be sent to carry out its "V for Victory" mission over Berlin, paid for by Canadian War Savings.

Alleged Spy Ring

Says Germany Had Bomb Secrets Back In 1938

Germany has had the secret of the Norden bomb aiming device since 1938, according to United States Attorney Harold M. Kennedy, who opened prosecution of 16 alleged spies in federal court before Judge Mortimer Byers and a jury.

Hermann Lang, one of the defendants, who was final inspector of the closely-guarded bomb sight, took the details to Germany in 1938, Kennedy declared, as he unfolded ramifications of the alleged spy ring which, he said, covered the entire western hemisphere.

Chimney swifts cannot perch on twigs and wires as other birds do. Their feet are of such peculiar construction that they are able to perch only on vertical surfaces.

Health Bread

Vitamin B-1 White Bread Will Soon Be On Sale

Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, told delegates to the regional conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World that a new vitamin-rich white bread—be called "Vitamin B-1 (white)"—soon will be on sale in Canada.

"The new bread will be practically indistinguishable from ordinary white bread, but instead of containing about 150 international units of vitamin B-1 it will have between 360 and 375," Dr. Newman said. "This puts it very little below the record of whole wheat bread."

Islands in a river are constantly changing their positions. This is caused by the water at the head washing away earth and depositing it at the foot.

DEADLOCK IN COMPETITION

A slip of the coin finally decided a 36-hole deadlock for Wilder H. Ripley (left) of Calgary, Peasants, Calif., and S. R. Howard (right) of Lethbridge, Alta. They tied with 74 for the Edward Prince of Wales cup at Banff's 12th golf tournament, played off on another 18 holes and both shot 79. Miss Christine Gawne, of Washington, D.C. (centre), tossed the coin which decided the cup in Ripley's favor. Ripley's play, incidentally, was a highlight of the Banff Springs Hotel event. He became the first player ever to break Banff's tough par in tournament play, scoring a one under-par 70 in the quarter-final round—Canadian Pacific photo.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

SEPTEMBER 21

OVERCOMING THE ADVERSARY

Golden text: And they overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb, and because of the word of their testimony; and they loved not their life even unto death. Revelation 12:11.

Lesson: Revelation 12:1; 15:4. Devotional reading: Psalm 27:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

The Defeat of Satan in Heaven, Revelation 12:7-12. There was war in heaven: Michael and his angels warred with the dragon and his angels. Michael is called an archangel in Jude 9. He was regarded as the patron angel of Israel and so of the symbolic Israel of God. Here he is the champion of righteousness and Satan is the champion of evil.

In this warfare in heaven, Satan and his angels were defeated and dislodged, cast down to the earth. The victory is ascribed to the atoning death of Christ, and the testimony of persecuted saints and martyrs. "Satan being already potentially conquered, heaven celebrates in anticipation the victory which the persecuted saints will win because Christ died for them and gave them strength to die." (Dunsmuir).

A Picture of the Church in Glory, Revelation 15:2-4. And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire. John may have watched a glorious sunset in the Red Sea, and this may have been the foundation for his vision of a glassy sea touched with fire. There is no reason for thinking that he is referring to the deliverance of the Israelites at the Red Sea, yet his reference to Moses in the next verse naturally recalls that event to our minds. Dr. Erdman says: "The reader is transported in memory to the scenes of the Exodus. He beholds Israel, redeemed from bondage, standing on the farther shore of the Red Sea, the surface of the waters is reddened by the light of the pillar of fire. Beneath the waves the hosts of Pharaoh are engulfed. To the sound of the timbre the song of deliverance is raised: 'It will sing unto Jehovah, for he hath triumphed gloriously.'"

The great host that John sees are those who have come off victorious from the beast (Rom. Rome's downfall is told in Rev. 14:8) and from his image and from the number of his names, having borne of God, that is, harp suited to the worship of God.

The great host breaks forth in a song of gratitude and triumph, an acknowledgment of the holiness of God and the greatness of his works.

A Modest Request

Actor Thought Lincoln Might Help Him To Realize Ambition

A compliment by Lincoln to an actor turned out rather unwelcome. This actor had played the part of Falstaff so well that Lincoln sent the actor a brief note of praise. One evening Mr. Noah P. Brooks, the President's confidential secretary, observed the actor in the President's waiting room. When Brooks came in, Lincoln asked him if anyone were outside, and upon receiving the answer, said, "Oh, I can't see him! I can't see him! I was in hopes he had gone away. Now this illustrates the difficulty of having pleasant friends in this place. You know, I liked him as an actor, and that I wrote to tell him so. He sent me a book, and there I thought the matter ended. He is a master of his place in the profession, I suppose, and well fixed in it. But just because we had a little friendly correspondence, such as any two men might have, he wants something. What do you suppose he wants?" He paused. "Well, he wants to be consul at London!"

Bacon From Windsor Castle

Members Of Royal Household Have Their Own Pig Club

Windsor Castle will be producing its own bacon soon. Like patriotic citizens up and down the country, members of the royal household have formed their own pig club—the 1,000th club to be registered with the National Pig Breeders' Council. And they have found a new use for scraps from the castle. They go straight to the pigs and form their main food. Each member paid $5 subscription and between them they now own 52 pigs. The royal family has shown great interest in the pigs since they arrived. Sir Ulick Alexander, keeper of the privy purse and financial secretary to the King, is the chairman of the club. Mr. Ritchie, who manages the royal farm at Windsor, bought the pigs and looks after them. They are middle whites and large whites, selected as being excellent "baconers."

Solved His Problem

Jimmy Engler, a service station operator in New York, has solved the gasoline problem so far as his personal consumption of fuel is concerned. He has equipped his car with a tank for kerosene and a small auxiliary tank of gasoline. The gasoline, he says, is used only for starting the motor. Once started the gasoline line is turned off and the car operates on kerosene.

NATIONAL HEALTH

That Canada is not alone in demanding a house-cleaning in the matter of national health, was pointed out by an official of the Health League of Canada. Coincidentally, he declared, voices were being raised in the United States calling for greater attention to the physical stamina of its people.

Dr. Victor G. Heiser, author of "An American Doctor's Odyssey," was said to be a leader in this movement for America's health, and his latest book, "Toughen up, America!" was said to be having a strong effect in awakening the public to the need for health conservation. Dr. Heiser was quoted as declaring: "The physical stamina of a people is as important in armament as cannon."

The Health League spokesman declared that his organization heartily endorsed Dr. Heiser's assertion that attention should centre on disease prevention rather than cure and quoted further from the American doctor to show what preventive methods could effect.

Dr. Heiser was the director of a $200,000 fund donated to Halifax, N.S., by Massachusetts after the Halifax disaster during the last war. He found eight groups each eagerly supporting a separate plan—one for a tuberculosis sanatorium, one for a home for the blind, and his latest told them—to quote his own words: "What you really need is a modern health department, to bring about compulsory vaccination and prevent another outbreak of smallpox; adequate garbage disposal; pasteurized milk; child welfare; an efficiently chlorinated water supply, and all the other essentials to prevent and control disease."

His advice was taken, he states, and subsequently. "The results of the diversified health program were spectacular. In five years the death rate was cut from 20.1 to 11.7 per 1,000 of population, and the infant death rate from 187 to 97 per 1,000. Nearly 2,450 people were alive who would otherwise have been dead."

Canada's Air Raid Sirens

Precaution Service Made Available In Vulnerable Areas Long Ago

Canada is stepping briskly into a comprehensive program for that essential of modern national protection, the air raid warning siren, pensions and national health officials said at Ottawa.

The air raid precaution service, which keeps a watchful eye on the vulnerable areas of the Dominion, is part of the departmental organization.

Officials said that a Toronto announcement of arrangements by a British company to produce air-raid sirens and warning signals in Canada for the Dominion market indicated a further addition to the supplies of such equipment being made available.

"The list of vulnerable areas where sirens are believed necessary has been kept secret, but it can be said that for two years air raid warning services have been available in certain vulnerable points," an official said. "The department is fully alive to the importance of A.R.P. services and discussions are proceeding in respect to the areas where further equipment may be required."

MICKIE SAYS—

"A LETTER FROM HOME" WITH ALL THE NEWS WILL BE SENT REGULAR FROM THIS OFFICE TO ANY ONE YOU WISH—JUST PAY PER A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION—WE DO THE REST!

The whole family enjoys it!

• Healthful, refreshing Spearmint Gum is a treat for young and old. And the chewing helps keep your teeth clean, bright and attractive. The delicious flavor sweetens your breath, freshens you up. Join the millions of happy families who enjoy Spearmint after every meal.

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY

—BY— Eleanor Atterbury Colton

CHAPTER XXIV.

In the dingy safety of her own room again, Devona paced the floor nervously. Still frightened by her close brush with the danger she knew hovered behind Macias' thinly veiled threat, she tried to sort out her thoughts. She had to decide right now which way to turn.

Knees trembling, she sagged into a little heap on the bed. If she could play the game for just another 24 hours, maybe she could discover something Dave needed to know. As it was now, her suspicions were—just suspicions. And no one was in so good a position to lend grounds for those suspicions as she was.

Slowly, she tried to sort out her thoughts. First, she must call Talbot, exact of him a promise not to return to El Mexicano. Trembling, she reached for the phone, gave the number.

"But why not?" Talbot demanded immediately, his voice sharp with concern.

"I can't explain now. But please take my word for it. It's dangerous—for you," she said, her voice lowered as if she half-expected that Macias stood listening at her elbow right now. "I'll see you Saturday evening after the show."

"Look here. I don't like this—"

"Please, Tal. It's all right. But Macias has taken a dislike to you for some silly reason and it—it would just save me embarrassment if you didn't come back for a while. It's silly, I know. But I promise to see you Saturday."

"Promises?"

"Yes—yes. I promise!"

"Until then—"

Until Saturday. Trembling as if with a chill, Devona replaced the receiver, sat staring at the cold lump of metal blinding. Forty-eight hours until Saturday. What could happen before that! And why was she risking all this? Why not run now while she had the chance?

Because, instinct told her, the man she loved was in danger. Serious danger. And this might be a way to save his life. The man she loved.

Dropping onto the bed again she lay quivering like some hunted animal—too distraught to find comfort in tears, too weary to fight her way free of the despair that pressed against her heart. Life was such a mess!

Fog hovered just outside the window the next morning when she finally roused from dreams and came back to her problem. And by the time she'd dressed, swallowed scalding black coffee in the dreary dining room downstairs, she had a plan. Or at least the beginning of one.

Manuel was surprised to see her arrive at the club so early.

"Well—how come you're here so early?" he asked, his eyes twinkling with the sunshine of your smile, sister?" he grinned as she crossed the empty dining room to the platform.

The Troubadours rehearsed for a couple of hours, usually, before Devona joined them. But to-day she unrolled some new music, set it on the rack.

"I'm tired of the little ditties we've been doing lately and I heard these last night. How do you like them?" she fabricated quickly.

And then while Manuel and the Troubadours were trying out the new songs, fitting parts in harmony, making a cacophony of sound even over the scraping of chairs and the sloshing of mops as the scrubwomen cleaned the room around them, Devona kept her eye on the door to Macias' office.

"The boss here yet?" she asked, casually.

Manuel nodded. "He'll be along, though. Why?"

"Nothing. Just wondered."

Carelessly she covered her wandering away from the platform by pulling off her hat and jacket, pretending to start for her own dressing room. Then, when one of the choruses inserted a passey into the lock of the gray-paneled door, Devona smiled at her brightly.

"Going to give the boss' domain a little polishing?"

"Sure, Miss, and you should see it when I get through," the old Irish woman grinned, toothlessly.

And while Devona was still wondering how she could manage it, the woman turned, picked up her pail, added,

"There now. I've gone and left my brushes down in the kitchen. Must be losing my head."

And still grumbling to herself, the cleaning woman closed the door again, set down her pail, ambled off down the hall.

What a stroke of good luck, Devona drew a deep breath, glanced quickly up the hall. If by any chance, the door latch had not been re-locked!

Fingers like ice, she tried it. The door was unlocked!

The next instant she was inside. Macias' dark eyes seemed actually to be staring at her from the portrait as her fingers stumbled around the elaborately carved gold frame, searching for the little, hidden button. And when the spring swung back against the wall, her memory electric, she knew, fingers—around three times back twice, around again, back half way—as she spun the dial.

Her heart seemed to stop as the heavy door swung open. She'd done it! Her eyes were electric. Except for the fan and mantilla and carved, jeweled comb she'd seen Macias put in there only last evening, the safe was now—empty!

A footstep in the hall jerked her back to her senses. The cleaning woman was back. The door slammed. She was alone. It would be hard to explain why she had invaded the forbidden ground. No employee was allowed in Macias' office without good reason. Every one knew that.

The closed door quickly replaced the picture. Then, as she turned back to the door, terror took real hold of her. The voice outside was—Macias'.

For a moment, she stood as if poured into a mold. What she caught—already! Then she remembered the secret panel. Crossing the deep-carpeted room, pressing the little panel aside, closing it again—it was a matter of a moment. And she'd scarcely stepped into the little passageway beyond when she heard the door outside open. Macias said,

"Never mind now, Nora. I'm busy. You can clean her later."

Then the sound of the door closing, the key turning in the latch. Scarcely daring to breathe for fear she'd betray her hiding place, Devona pressed against the wall, motionless. She heard Macias cross the room, scrape back a chair. A moment later, he gave a telephone number—his voice lowered so that she had to strain to hear.

"Hello. Hello! That you, Joe?"

Listen, I delivered the stuff all right, but the cops are getting wise. Now get this straight!

"Tell Sam I'll pick up the new batch myself. Tell him to call me direct as soon as it's in. Get that?"

A pause during which Devona heard the rasping crackle of a voice over the wire.

"Saturday you think? OK. I'll be expecting your call. Right. Bye."

Devona waited until she heard him hang up, begin opening and closing desk drawers, moving restlessly around the room before she stole silently down the narrow corridor to the outside door. If it were locked from the inside, as well as from the outside, she'd have a little sigh. It wasn't. Carefully, she opened it, glanced up and down the alley, closed it noiselessly behind her. She'd made the first hurdle, she congratulated herself as she sped down the alley toward the club's rear entrance. And made a beginning, too, in her search for evidence. That message Macias crossed the empty dining room to the platform.

The Troubadours rehearsed for a couple of hours, usually, before Devona joined them. But to-day she unrolled some new music, set it on the rack.

"I'm tired of the little ditties we've been doing lately and I heard these last night. How do you like them?" she fabricated quickly.

And then while Manuel and the Troubadours were trying out the new songs, fitting parts in harmony, making a cacophony of sound even over the scraping of chairs and the sloshing of mops as the scrubwomen cleaned the room around them, Devona kept her eye on the door to Macias' office.

"The boss here yet?" she asked, casually.

Manuel nodded. "He'll be along, though. Why?"

"Nothing. Just wondered."

Carelessly she covered her wandering away from the platform by pulling off her hat and jacket, pretending to start for her own dressing room. Then, when one of the choruses inserted a passey into the lock of the gray-paneled door, Devona smiled at her brightly.

"Going to give the boss' domain a little polishing?"

"Sure, Miss, and you should see it when I get through," the old Irish woman grinned, toothlessly.

And while Devona was still wondering how she could manage it, the woman turned, picked up her pail, added,

"There now. I've gone and left my brushes down in the kitchen. Must be losing my head."

And still grumbling to herself, the cleaning woman closed the door again, set down her pail, ambled off down the hall.

What a stroke of good luck, Devona drew a deep breath, glanced quickly up the hall. If by any chance, the door latch had not been re-locked!

Fingers like ice, she tried it. The door was unlocked!

The next instant she was inside. Macias' dark eyes seemed actually to be staring at her from the portrait as her fingers stumbled around the elaborately carved gold frame, searching for the little, hidden button. And when the spring swung back against the wall, her memory electric, she knew, fingers—around three times back twice, around again, back half way—as she spun the dial.

Her heart seemed to stop as the heavy door swung open. She'd done it! Her eyes were electric. Except for the fan and mantilla and carved, jeweled comb she'd seen Macias put in there only last evening, the safe was now—empty!

A footstep in the hall jerked her back to her senses. The cleaning woman was back. The door slammed. She was alone. It would be hard to explain why she had invaded the forbidden ground. No employee was allowed in Macias' office without good reason. Every one knew that.

The closed door quickly replaced the picture. Then, as she turned back to the door, terror took real hold of her. The voice outside was—Macias'.

For a moment, she stood as if poured into a mold. What she caught—already! Then she remembered the secret panel. Crossing the deep-carpeted room, pressing the little panel aside, closing it again—it was a matter of a moment. And she'd scarcely stepped into the little passageway beyond when she heard the door outside open. Macias said,

"Never mind now, Nora. I'm busy. You can clean her later."

Then the sound of the door closing, the key turning in the latch. Scarcely daring to breathe for fear she'd betray her hiding place, Devona pressed against the wall, motionless. She heard Macias cross the room, scrape back a chair. A moment later, he gave a telephone number—his voice lowered so that she had to strain to hear.

"Hello. Hello! That you, Joe?"

Listen, I delivered the stuff all right, but the cops are getting wise. Now get this straight!

"Tell Sam I'll pick up the new batch myself. Tell him to call me direct as soon as it's in. Get that?"

A pause during which Devona heard the rasping crackle of a voice over the wire.

"Saturday you think? OK. I'll be expecting your call. Right. Bye."

Devona waited until she heard him hang up, begin opening and closing desk drawers, moving restlessly around the room before she stole silently down the narrow corridor to the outside door. If it were locked from the inside, as well as from the outside, she'd have a little sigh. It wasn't. Carefully, she opened it, glanced up and down the alley, closed it noiselessly behind her. She'd made the first hurdle, she congratulated herself as she sped down the alley toward the club's rear entrance. And made a beginning, too, in her search for evidence. That message Macias crossed the empty dining room to the platform.

The Troubadours rehearsed for a couple of hours, usually, before Devona joined them. But to-day she unrolled some new music, set it on the rack.

"I'm tired of the little ditties we've been doing lately and I heard these last night. How do you like them?" she fabricated quickly.

And then while Manuel and the Troubadours were trying out the new songs, fitting parts in harmony, making a cacophony of sound even over the scraping of chairs and the sloshing of mops as the scrubwomen cleaned the room around them, Devona kept her eye on the door to Macias' office.

"The boss here yet?" she asked, casually.

Manuel nodded. "He'll be along, though. Why?"

"Nothing. Just wondered."

Carelessly she covered her wandering away from the platform by pulling off her hat and jacket, pretending to start for her own dressing room. Then, when one of the choruses inserted a passey into the lock of the gray-paneled door, Devona smiled at her brightly.

"Going to give the boss' domain a little polishing?"

"Sure, Miss, and you should see it when I get through," the old Irish woman grinned, toothlessly.

And while Devona was still wondering how she could manage it, the woman turned, picked up her pail, added,

"There now. I've gone and left my brushes down in the kitchen. Must be losing my head."

And still grumbling to herself, the cleaning woman closed the door again, set down her pail, ambled off down the hall.

What a stroke of good luck, Devona drew a deep breath, glanced quickly up the hall. If by any chance, the door latch had not been re-locked!

Fingers like ice, she tried it. The door was unlocked!

The next instant she was inside. Macias' dark eyes seemed actually to be staring at her from the portrait as her fingers stumbled around the elaborately carved gold frame, searching for the little, hidden button. And when the spring swung back against the wall, her memory electric, she knew, fingers—around three times back twice, around again, back half way—as she spun the dial.

Her heart seemed to stop as the heavy door swung open. She'd done it! Her eyes were electric. Except for the fan and mantilla and carved, jeweled comb she'd seen Macias put in there only last evening, the safe was now—empty!

A footstep in the hall jerked her back to her senses. The cleaning woman was back. The door slammed. She was alone. It would be hard to explain why she had invaded the forbidden ground. No employee was allowed in Macias' office without good reason. Every one knew that.

The closed door quickly replaced the picture. Then, as she turned back to the door, terror took real hold of her. The voice outside was—Macias'.

For a moment, she stood as if poured into a mold. What she caught—already! Then she remembered the secret panel. Crossing the deep-carpeted room, pressing the little panel aside, closing it again—it was a matter of a moment. And she'd scarcely stepped into the little passageway beyond when she heard the door outside open. Macias said,

"Never mind now, Nora. I'm busy. You can clean her later."

Then the sound of the door closing, the key turning in the latch. Scarcely daring to breathe for fear she'd betray her hiding place, Devona pressed against the wall, motionless. She heard Macias cross the room, scrape back a chair. A moment later, he gave a telephone number—his voice lowered so that she had to strain to hear.

"Hello. Hello! That you, Joe?"

Listen, I delivered the stuff all right, but the cops are getting wise. Now get this straight!

"Tell Sam I'll pick up the new batch myself. Tell him to call me direct as soon as it's in. Get that?"

A pause during which Devona heard the rasping crackle of a voice over the wire.

"Saturday you think? OK. I'll be expecting your call. Right. Bye."

Devona waited until she heard him hang up, begin opening and closing desk drawers, moving restlessly around the room before she stole silently down the narrow corridor to the outside door. If it were locked from the inside, as well as from the outside, she'd have a little sigh. It wasn't. Carefully, she opened it, glanced up and down the alley, closed it noiselessly behind her. She'd made the first hurdle, she congratulated herself as she sped down the alley toward the club's rear entrance. And made a beginning, too, in her search for evidence. That message Macias

—Christian Science Monitor.

would be expecting sometime Saturday, that "new stuff"—if she could find out something about that.

Head down against the stiff wind that had sprung up, she hurried around the corner. Bumped squarely into some one.

"Hello!"

It was Joe—Macias' chauffeur.

"Oh—hello." And tried to laugh around her guilty confusion, "Fancy meeting you here."

He glanced over her shoulder, down the length of the deserted alley. "What's up?"

Desperately, Devona called out her wits. What a stupid blunder. What reason could she give him for her being in the alley at 11 in the morning when he knew as well as she that she didn't even go on duty until afternoon. Smiling, she shrugged.

"Came down for extra-early rehearsal. Poor morning, isn't it?"

And, ignoring his puzzled glance at her, and perfectly aware that heing hatless and coatless didn't help her story any, she ran on into the side entrance. Once safely inside again, she slipped through the busy kitchen, down the step to her own dressing room.

Had she bungled that hopelessly, she wondered frantically as she slipped out of street clothes into a costume. What if Joe went right to Macias, mentioned either accident ally or purposely, having found her racing along the alley at this hour? What if, later, Joe happened to remember seeing her there?

Shrugging the ruffled mat in to place, Devona dropped down before her dressing table, began applying the rouge, the eyeshadow, the heavy powder that was part of her mask. Probably Joe wouldn't think of it again. She tried to believe that. Just a casual meeting—she was over-sensitive, too apprehensive. Anyway—

And she tried to shrug aside mounting fears—she had to take the chance to try again.

Manuel was shouting her name as she left her dressing room: made her way back to the rehearsal.

There are fashions in cookies just as there are fashions in hats. The latest is Bran Brownies—a delectable combination of chocolate, nuts and crisp crunchy bran. While it belongs in the cookie class it's a first cousin to fudge. The makings are as follows:

Bran Brownies
3 squares unsweetened chocolate (3 oz.)
1/2 cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup bran
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Beat eggs well, add sugar and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add chocolate mixture. Stir in flour, bran, nut meats and vanilla. Pour into greased baking pan, making layer about one-third inch thick. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes.
Variation: 1/2 cup cocoa may be substituted for chocolate. Omit chocolate and sift cocoa with flour. Melt shortening and add to egg and sugar mixture.

War Fund Goes Over

The Toronto Telegram's British War Victims Fund Reaches And Passes The Million-Dollar Mark

Twelvemonth ago, The Evening Telegram British War Victims Fund had not come into being. To-day it is the largest fund in Canadian newspaper history, with the first million-dollar mark gloriously passed. It is a fund as true to the hearts of the Ontario public as it is to the heart of the man whose decision opened it to them—C. O. Knowles, the editor of The Evening Telegram.

On September 11, 1940, The Telegram published a letter from Alderman John Innes, of Toronto's Ward Nine, a Scot allied with sympathy for the civilians of Great Britain upon whom Nazi bombs were showering. Alderman Innes enclosed his own cheque for $10, and ten one-dollar contributions handed to him by as many citizens.

"Many persons," John Innes wrote, "have approached me with reference to providing immediate relief to the people of the Motherland who have lost all their worldly possessions. I am sure that many thousands of Canadians would welcome the opportunity of contributing . . . towards the immediate relief of these suffering British folk."

Mr. Knowles felt the same, and the British War Victims Fund was born.

The second day contributions amounted to $201. "May you get more," said a Toronto woman, with her $5. The fund got more—$359 the third day; $4,881 by the end of the first week. Eleven days after its start, the first $2,000 was cabled to Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of Great Britain. The No. 1 building of the British breed called back "My warm appreciation of your readers' response," and directed the money to emergency British air relief.

In time more money, and on it went, without delay and without deduction of a single penny for administration expenses, to Britain's Prime Minister.

From then on, as $2,000 cable followed $2,000 cable every few days, waiting only for the formal sanction of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, the money has gone, at Mr. Churchill's request, straight to the central fund formed to co-ordinate Great Britain's air raid relief—the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund. As the audited statements published monthly in The Telegram show, not a single administrative charge has been made. The Telegram has borne the cost of continuing to bear, all expenses, including the cabling of the money. The Imperial Bank of Canada absorbs the bank charges on cheques.

And the people of the province, and beyond it, have continued to seize the opportunity of seeing 100 cents of every given dollar go directly—and promptly—to aid Britons who have lost all but their lives and their gallant courage in this new and horrible total war.

Every donation has been voluntary. The Telegram decided at the outset not to make a plea for contributions, and none has been needed. The money flows in on the swift tide of patriotic sympathy.

Young Ontario has made the fund its own. In the last four months, since inauguration of an "Honour Roll" headed "These Children Helped Britain," contributions to The Evening Telegram British War Victims Fund pictures of more than 10,000 boys and girls have appeared. They have denied themselves pleasures and worked in multitudinous ways to help make life a little less horrible for other boys and girls across the ocean.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Carried To Extreme Story About Red Tape Methods During Last World War

Most government offices are bound up in red tape methods though the outsider little realizes it. During the great war it was very much in evidence, despite the danger to life and limb.

For example, a British officer in charge of an exposed and important position on the front ran short of ammunition during an unexpected and hotly-pressed attack. Writing a letter from his pocket-book, he hastily wrote on it the following message:

"In great danger. For heaven's sake send us more ammunition!"

The note was dispatched by an orderly at full speed. After considerable delay the messenger returned and handed his officer an official document. On opening it he read the following extraordinary effusion:

"All communications to this department must be written on foolscap paper with a two-inch margin."

Canadian decimal currency was first introduced July 1, 1858, nine years before Confederation.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

Canada's area is more than 27 per cent of the total area of the British Empire.

HOME SERVICE

YOUR DREAMS MAY BE AS REAL AS THEY SEEM

That dream seemed so real I can still hear the air-raid sirens.

Up and down the dream streets she had rushed, frantically seeking a bomb shelter. Finding refuge in a store where her mother had a charge account, she fell safe.

The dream seemed real because it WAS real, for dreams symbolize our real feelings about life.

Your dreams, too, throw a whole new light on your subconscious. Understanding their meaning, you can brush out worries that previously festered under the surface.

A dream of losing your engagement ring may mean you suppose a fear that your beau is unfaithful. Or do you dream of wild beasts or of being alone in an empty world?

Psychology can explain all these dreams. Our 32-page booklet has meanings of many dreams and dream symbols. Discusses dreams that "come true," sex dreams.

Send $1.00 for your copy of "The Meaning of Dreams" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

197—"Advertising Design Self-Taught"

172—"Effective Phrases For All Occasions"

129—"Teach Yourself to Sing"

190—"World's Best-Love Poems"

108—"Making Plants and Flowers Grow Indoors"

155—"Glass Gardens and Novelty Indoor Gardens"

Carrier Pigeons Find That Falcons Kill Birds Carrying Messages

The air ministry has declared war to the death on the peregrine falcon—the slayer of carrier-pigeons.

The predatory activities of these "birds of prey" have been continuing to bear, all expenses, including the cabling of the money. The Imperial Bank of Canada absorbs the bank charges on cheques.

And the people of the province, and beyond it, have continued to

There has been a scarcity of school teachers in Saskatchewan for some time.

LET

the stove stay hot. You can polish it perfectly, safely, quickly with

"JET"

SIGHT depends on LIGHT

EDISON MAZDA LAMPS

MADE IN CANADA
CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LIMITED

THE LITTLE PEOPLE OF ENGLAND

by Mrs. Vallance S. Patriarche

"THEY carry no weapons, wave no banners, chant no stately measures of poesy, these little people of England. Pale clerks, laborers with stiff, gnarled hands; old fishermen and young mechanics; housewives, washer-women, nursemaids and chaps, and tired children singing underground fit to break your heart.

"THEY climb to heights of glory as if born to sacrifice and heroism, scaling the peaks by humble paths and mean alleys which turn to pits of flame; or attaining the summit of valor through dark and cruel descent into the icy waters of the sea. Like soldiers they have borne the shock of fire and shell; like sailors they have gone down unflinchingly to their death in shattered ships, and like aviators they have given their strength to rise 'By Labor to the Stars.'

"NO Abbey walls have space to record the deeds of these simple ones, gone sadly or gallily to eternity. Their names shall not be graven on stone nor painted on glass; no Roll of Honor could set them forth. But the dross of England the winds which whisper in her trees the waves which beat upon her shores, shall vibrate with the passion of their courage, the splendor of their sacrifice. Each dawn shall tell how they arose in humble cheerfulness to light their tiny corner of the earth with a candle of faith, each sunset shall be a flaming beacon to remind all men of their burning steadfastness."

AND WE ARE ONLY ASKED TO LEND!

INCREASE YOUR INVESTMENTS IN WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

Space donated by the BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

Prairie towns have made generous donations of money, piano, preserves, etc., to Woods' Christian Home.

Word from France states that the German battleships Sharnhorst and Goeben are crippled beyond use.

In the absence of Mrs. J. James, the beauty parlor at the Cosmopolitan hotel is in charge of Mrs. Paul Zimka.

The territory under direct supervision of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is as large as the whole of Europe.

Down-east papers are allowing greater space between births, marriages and deaths. Well, that's a good idea.

A. R. Mosher, of Ottawa, was re-elected president of the Canadian Congress of Labor at its annual convention held in Hamilton, Ontario, last week. Pat Conroy, of Calgary, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Birthday congratulations are extended to Bill Granger and Mrs. D. Curcio, Sept. 13; Renee Beltrame, Sept. 14; L. P. Robert, Sept. 17; Clara Roper, Sept. 18; C. V. Howe and Jean Anne Smithson, today.

The duck population of Southern Alberta is much less this year than for several years. In a sanctuary on the Cochrane ranch, near Cardston, less than a third of the number of last year have been counted. Early drought is held responsible for the loss. In Northern Alberta the reverse is true. The numbers have greatly increased this year.

Local and General Items

The Editor will be glad to receive items for this section, regarding visitors entertained, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, showers, presentations, anniversaries, etc. Phone items in to 11 or hand them in at The Enterprise office not later than Thursday evenings.

Red Deer is treating its citizens to free garbage collection.

In the absence of George Sangster, The Editor will be glad to receive items for this section, regarding visitors entertained, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, showers, presentations, anniversaries, etc. Phone items in to 11 or hand them in at The Enterprise office not later than Thursday evenings.

Frank Morgan spent the week end at home and left Monday morning for Fort Nelson, B.C.

Constable Wilson returned to Lethbridge on Monday, after a several days' visit with friends here.

Pope Pius asks Catholics throughout the world to pray during the month of October for a shortening of the war.

The Russians sank five German transports attempting a landing on the Baltic island of Oesel, off the Estonian mainland.

Roland Laslett and Murray Saunders, two of Calgary's best known travellers, were doing The Pass the early part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turnbull, returning from a holiday visit to coast points, called on The Enterprise on Monday afternoon on their way home to Red Deer.

Snow hit Lethbridge over the week end. The banana-belt towns of the Crows' Nest Pass, Hillcrest, Bellevue, Blaimore and Coleman had not yet experienced snow, but some frost.

More than 3,000 automobile tires, destined for defence purposes in Canada, were destroyed by fire in the scrap yard of the Central Tire Company in North Philadelphia on Saturday.

Aberhart's reply to the Independents' request that he resign is about the weakest thing we have seen in print for many a day. In no way does he effectively defend his attitude to the "Union Now."

Eight members of the Jehovah Witnesses sect were convicted of being members of an illegal organization at Edmonton, and fined amounts totalling $500, with optional jail terms. All but two went to jail.

The marriage of Marjorie Root, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice, to William Lester Carver, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Carver, formerly of the Crows' Nest Pass, took place at Calgary on Saturday.

The marriage took place in Montreal on Saturday last of Eleanor Jean Crabtree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crabtree, of Montreal, to Lieut. Joseph Ross, R.C.N.V.R., son of Major and Mrs. J. H. Ross, of Calgary. They will reside in Ottawa.

Gus Gamahe blew into town during the week from Turner Valley, his first visit for about four years. He's looking good and claims that Turner Valley oil is very nutritious. Gus tips the scales at 6 feet 7 inches, and stands 210 pounds in weight.

Two C.P.R. freight trains collided at Swans, east of Cranbrook, early Sunday morning. Crews of both trains jumped to safety before the impact. The line was cleared in about three hours. As a result, the regular passenger train through here on Sunday afternoon was two hours late.

The money spent on pamphlets in reply to the Independents' request that Premier Aberhart should resign could well be put to a better purpose—perhaps help the war. The Independents are in the right, and possibly every one of them are helping us defend ourselves against Nazism.

The city of Calgary refuses to accept cheques on the Alberta treasury branches. It is claimed that "this is one branch of the government that is losing citizens thousands of dollars, and we don't see why the city of Calgary should help them to lose more."

Item in last week's Drumheller Mail: Births 111, 1100 ooo.

George Shearer was down from Kimberley over the week end.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Armand Mison on Tuesday evening.

A local girl says she'd like to meet that guy Archie Pelago, so popular in Spitzbergen.

The Okotoks town council voted $25 to the Calgary Central of the Red Cross, and $50 to their local branch.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sangster left Sunday on a month's vacation, to be spent mostly in Lacombe, Calgary and Edmonton.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Little at the St. Eugene hospital at Cranbrook on August 21. They are Cranbrook residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Large have taken up residence in Fernie, where Mr. Large has taken over the management of the McLean Drugstore.

John Lloyd has resigned the chairmanship of the Coleman school board, and is succeeded by George Evans.

A juvenile, who had been following the path of crime, has been sent to the provincial reformatory, there to remain till he is of the full age of 21.

The annual convention of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association will be held at Vancouver on October 3rd and 4th.

The polio ban will conclude this week end and schools will open on Monday morning next. Students are advised to sharpen up their wits, for with three weeks of school lost, it will be difficult to catch up on courses of studies.

Joseph H. Ross, director of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training movement in Alberta, was badly hurt Sunday afternoon in a fall in his home at Calgary, fracturing his collarbone. He was removed to hospital, and is reported progressing.

Premier Aberhart got an earful about his "creating money" fallacy schemes when Hon. J. L. Hiley addressed the Canadian Club and other service clubs in Edmonton recently. The premier looked down his nose during the hearing with a poker face for observers.—The Spotlight.

The court of King's Bench, in an unanimous judgment at Montreal on Monday ruled that the celebration of a so-called "mixed marriage" by a Protestant clergyman is legal and valid in the province of Quebec, and that such a marriage cannot be overturned by annulment because of religious faiths of the contracting parties.

The Harvest-Thanksgiving service at the United church on Sunday evening was very well attended, despite the inclement weather. The church rostrum was bedecked with a splendid array of flowers, fruits and vegetables. Mrs. A. McKay rendered an appropriate solo. Coupled with the harvest thanksgiving feature was the war reconsecration appeal.

For some years the Ontario government has car-marked all motor vehicles for highway purposes. That province has thus been enabled to spend millions of dollars on building hard-surfaced highways. The consequence is that Ontario has been able to make a stronger bid for U. S. tourist trade. What Alberta does lack is roads of a sufficient standard that will bring in more and more tourists.

The post office department at Ottawa has given warning that it's time to begin thinking about the Christmas parcel for the boys overseas. The volume of mail is expected to be more than twice as great as last year, because of the increased number of troops in the United Kingdom. November the 10th is the deadline if you want to be sure the parcels are going to arrive in time.

George Shearer was down from Kimberley over the week end.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Armand Mison on Tuesday evening.

A local girl says she'd like to meet that guy Archie Pelago, so popular in Spitzbergen.

The Okotoks town council voted $25 to the Calgary Central of the Red Cross, and $50 to their local branch.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sangster left Sunday on a month's vacation, to be spent mostly in Lacombe, Calgary and Edmonton.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Little at the St. Eugene hospital at Cranbrook on August 21. They are Cranbrook residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Large have taken up residence in Fernie, where Mr. Large has taken over the management of the McLean Drugstore.

John Lloyd has resigned the chairmanship of the Coleman school board, and is succeeded by George Evans.

A juvenile, who had been following the path of crime, has been sent to the provincial reformatory, there to remain till he is of the full age of 21.

The annual convention of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association will be held at Vancouver on October 3rd and 4th.

The polio ban will conclude this week end and schools will open on Monday morning next. Students are advised to sharpen up their wits, for with three weeks of school lost, it will be difficult to catch up on courses of studies.

Joseph H. Ross, director of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training movement in Alberta, was badly hurt Sunday afternoon in a fall in his home at Calgary, fracturing his collarbone. He was removed to hospital, and is reported progressing.

Premier Aberhart got an earful about his "creating money" fallacy schemes when Hon. J. L. Hiley addressed the Canadian Club and other service clubs in Edmonton recently. The premier looked down his nose during the hearing with a poker face for observers.—The Spotlight.

The court of King's Bench, in an unanimous judgment at Montreal on Monday ruled that the celebration of a so-called "mixed marriage" by a Protestant clergyman is legal and valid in the province of Quebec, and that such a marriage cannot be overturned by annulment because of religious faiths of the contracting parties.

The Harvest-Thanksgiving service at the United church on Sunday evening was very well attended, despite the inclement weather. The church rostrum was bedecked with a splendid array of flowers, fruits and vegetables. Mrs. A. McKay rendered an appropriate solo. Coupled with the harvest thanksgiving feature was the war reconsecration appeal.

For some years the Ontario government has car-marked all motor vehicles for highway purposes. That province has thus been enabled to spend millions of dollars on building hard-surfaced highways. The consequence is that Ontario has been able to make a stronger bid for U. S. tourist trade. What Alberta does lack is roads of a sufficient standard that will bring in more and more tourists.

The post office department at Ottawa has given warning that it's time to begin thinking about the Christmas parcel for the boys overseas. The volume of mail is expected to be more than twice as great as last year, because of the increased number of troops in the United Kingdom. November the 10th is the deadline if you want to be sure the parcels are going to arrive in time.

For August the Michel oven turned out 6,945 tons of coke.

Mrs. Russell Ferguson has been a hospital patient at Coleman.

Miss Audrey Martin was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner at Fernie.

"I have no inferiority complex," declared Muscolini recently. "Just an inferiority one."

The Columbus Club will stage a Fall Dance in the Columbus hall on the night of Friday next, September 26th, with the Arcadians supplying poppy music.

Men of 30, 40, 50

PEP, YIM, VIGOR, Subnormal! Want normal pep, vim, vigor, vitality? Try Oster's Tonic Tablets. Contains iron, aluminum, copper, potassium—side to normal pep after 30, 40 or 50. Get a special introductory size for only 50¢. Try this and to normal pep and vim today. For sale at all good drug stores.

DENTISTRY

R. K. Lillie, D.D.S., L.D.S.
Graduate N. U. D. S., Chicago

HOURS:
Coleman—Morning 9 to 12
Blaimore—Afternoon 1 to 6
Evenings by Appointment

PHONES:
Both Offices 332-2 — Residence 332-9

Children love
MISSION ORANGE

6c
Including Tax

Naturally Good

CROWS' NEST BOTTLING WORKS
Mark Satoris, Prop.
BLAIRMORE ALBERTA

Let us Demonstrate the 41 Features of the
CHEVROLET for '41

EYE IT! TRY IT!! BUY IT!!!

WE CARRY
PHILCO and WESTINGHOUSE RADIOS
and are Prepared to Give You First-Class Service
Grease • Oil • Gas • Anti-Freeze • Heaters
CROWS' NEST PASS MOTORS
— CHEVROLET and OLDSMOBILE DEALERS —
WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS
BLAIRMORE Phone 105

Dry Cleaning and Pressing
DONE TO SUIT YOUR REQUIREMENTS
Goods Called For and Delivered

AGENTS FOR
LEISHMAN and FIRTH BROS.
High-Class Clothing Your Fit Guaranteed
Prices from $25.75 Up

LADIES' BRITISH-KNIT COATS and DRESSES

CROWS' NEST PASS TAILORS
PHONE 85 — BLAIRMORE